

The Catering & Hospitality team has been working closely with 2nd year students from the Cardiff School of Health Science to further develop a new Eatwell food ranges to be available on campus in early September.

The aim of the exercise is to help further develop the “Eatwell” healthier food range by using the students from the CSHS to create new product developments as part of their course module.

From the project these are the students with their dishes they created.

Sam Richards a 2nd Year student at the School of Health Science created an Eatwell Healthy Baguette Filling Pea & Mint Falafel wraps.

Alice Grant a 2nd year student at the School of Health Science created an Eatwell Jacket filled with beef & onion.

The Catering & Hospitality team would also like to congratulate all the 2nd year CSHS students for creating such great dishes at the NPD fair held on the 16th of March at the Llandaff campus.
